

THE RELIGION AND DIVERSITY PROJECT/RELIGION ET DIVERSITÉ

Christopher Helland

Co-investigator (Strand 1)

chelland@dal.ca

Associate Professor

Department of Sociology and Social Anthropology

Dalhousie University

Research Statement

My current research activities explore the relationships that have developed, and are developing, between new media and religious beliefs and practices. My central questions focus upon the impact of the Internet and World Wide Web on issues of religious authority and control, religious information seeking behaviour, social shaping/spiritualizing of technology, ritual activity, pilgrimage, and popular religious expression.