

The International Research Consortium on “Dynamics in the History of Religions between Asia and Europe” at Ruhr University Bochum, Germany, invites applications for a

Fellowship for Research on Islam in Early Modern and Modern Times during the academic year April 2012 to March 2013.

What we can offer:

- Time and space for research in an interdisciplinary environment;
- up to 70,000 € (gross rate) (= about 100,000 $ – the exact amount depends on the applicant’s status) either as a grant or as a salary for the fellow’s substitute at his or her home institution;
- good infrastructure (libraries etc.);
- free lodging in a single apartment;
- travel expenses related to research activities;
- means for organizing congresses or workshops.

What we would expect:

- Research on the history of Islamic religion under the conditions of religious contact in Early Modern and Modern Times;
- your presence during the fellowship term;
- committed participation in the consortium's activities;
- substantial research results in form of publications;

Applicants must at least hold a Ph.D. The Ruhr University Bochum is an equal opportunity employer and encourages women and members of minorities to apply.

Interested applicants should send a letter of interest, a current CV including a list of publications, and an exposé of the intended research of about 5-10 pages. Application materials can be submitted by mail or email. Please send your application before October 15th, 2011 to the

Käte Hamburger Kolleg

“Dynamics in the History of Religions between Asia and Europe”

Ruhr-Universität Bochum

Roman Höritzsch

Universitätsstr. 150

D-44780 Bochum, Germany

roman-maria.hoeritzsch@rub.de

For further information on the program of the research consortium on “Dynamics in the History of Religions” see www.khk.ceres.rub.de.